

ASIL 104TH ANNUAL MEETING

INTERNATIONAL LAW IN A TIME OF CHANGE

March 24-27, 2010 • The Ritz-Carlton • Washington, D.C.

With a century of tradition and experience behind it, ASIL's Annual Meeting has become the most important gathering in the field of international law. More than 1,000 practitioners, academics, and students travel to Washington, D.C. each spring from all over the world to debate and discuss the latest developments in their field.

FINAL PROGRAM

ASIL is a nonprofit, nonpartisan, educational membership organization founded in 1906 and chartered by Congress in 1950. The mission of the American Society of International Law is to foster the study of international law and to promote the establishment and maintenance of international relations on the basis of law and justice. ASIL holds Category II Consultative Status to the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations and is a constituent society of the American Council of Learned Societies.

The Society's 4,000 members from nearly 100 nations include attorneys, academics, corporate counsel, judges, representatives of governments and nongovernmental organizations, international civil servants, students and others interested in international law. Through meetings, publications, information services and outreach programs that have adapted to dramatic changes in international law – as both an expansive topic and an evolving professional discipline – ASIL advances international law scholarship and education for international law professionals as well as for broader policy-making audiences and the public.

Dear Colleague:

The current moment provides many challenges and opportunities for both international law and the international lawmaking process. Today's substantive issues – from armed conflict to climate change to the financial crisis to terrorism – have generated much new thinking about international legal rules and structures; at the same time, efforts to create new law implicate the interests of, and require the cooperation of, new and existing actors and institutions at many levels of governance. Our traditional models of international law are seeking to adapt to changing norms, approaches to governance, and governmental and nongovernmental actors – a process made more dynamic by the early approach the Obama Administration has adopted towards international problem-solving. Yet for some, these new approaches pose problematic challenges to the existing international legal order.

The 2010 American Society of International Law Annual Meeting will grapple with these issues. Panels and other fora will present a broad range of perspectives on the remaking of international law through new modes of lawmaking, new methods of global governance, new actors engaging international and transnational problems, and new substantive rules to address evolving and complex problems.

The American Society of International Law, with its membership of leading scholars and practitioners of international law from around the world, is uniquely situated to provide an unparalleled exploration of international lawmaking in this time of change. We invite you to be a part of the 2010 Annual Meeting.

The International Law Reports

online

It's a small world now.

For the first time ever the full archive of the International Law Reports is available in a fully searchable form online via the award-winning Justis platform. Features include:

- ▶ Cases in English from international and national courts worldwide
- ▶ Full coverage from 1919 to the most current rulings
- ▶ Full cross-linking and cross-referencing
- ▶ Advanced search capabilities

Covering all significant cases of public international law, the collection spans from the postwar Treaty of Versailles era to a cyberspace-influenced 21st century, featuring an enormously diverse range of topics along the way, including:

- ▶ International boundaries
- ▶ Numerous treaties between states
- ▶ Refugee law
- ▶ Terrorism
- ▶ State and diplomatic immunity
- ▶ War

The International Law Reports Online is a must for all practitioners and academics specialising in international law and is the only database in the world devoted to the regular and systematic reporting of decisions on points of international law from every relevant jurisdiction - international and national.

International Law Journals from Cambridge

Hague Journal on the Rule of Law

This unique focal point for the exchange of views between academics and practitioners gives focus to the promotion of the rule of law on both the national and international stage. The journal aims to deepen and broaden the knowledge of the rule of law and its relation to economic growth, poverty reduction, promotion of democracy, protection of human rights and geopolitical stability. It invites and will publish academic articles, practitioner reports and commentary, book reviews and special volumes on major developments and themes in the rule of law field.

journals.cambridge.org/rol

International & Comparative Law Quarterly (ICLQ)

Published on behalf of the British Institute of International and Comparative Law, ICLQ is a forum for papers on public and private international law and also comparative law. It has maintained its pre-eminence as one of the earliest and most important journals of its kind, encompassing human rights and European law. The journal encourages innovative and original articles that explore the interconnectedness between the legal subject areas, moving across the boundaries that divide the law in a way that provides vital analysis at a time when formal distinctions, in scholarship and between jurisdictions, are becoming less relevant.

journals.cambridge.org/iclq

World Trade Review

The World Trade Review is an independent, multi-disciplinary journal that aims to deepen understanding of issues facing the international trading system through critical analysis and constructive debate. The 2009 volume has a special issue devoted to the report of the American Law Institute (ALI) project on World Trade Organization Case Law covering 2006 and 2007.

journals.cambridge.org/wtr

Leiden Journal of International Law, is one of Europe's leading journals in the fields of international dispute settlement and international legal theory. It is unique in providing comprehensive coverage of the world's most important international tribunals in The Hague (such as ICJ, ICTY and ICC) and elsewhere. 20:4 was a special issue in honour of John Dugard.

journals.cambridge.org/ljl

Yearbook of International Humanitarian Law provides a truly international forum for high-quality, peer-reviewed articles, commentaries on current developments, reports on state practice and documentation that have international humanitarian law as their focal point.

journals.cambridge.org/yhl

Netherlands International Law Review (NILR)

marketed and distributed for T.M.C. Asser Press NILR addresses topics and trends in private and public international law as well as developments in The Hague's international tribunals and an annual review of Dutch state practice.

journals.cambridge.org/nlr

Journal of African Law, published for the School of Oriental and African Studies, encompasses the laws of sub-Saharan African countries, featuring articles which address contemporary legal issues and highlight issues of international and comparative significance.

journals.cambridge.org/jal

International Review of the Red Cross

provides an unrivalled source of international research, analysis and debate on all aspects of humanitarian law, in armed conflict and other situations of collective violence.

The Pursuit of International Criminal Justice:

A World Study on Conflicts, Victimization, and Post-Conflict Justice

Since 1948 some 310 conflicts have taken place resulting in an estimated 92 to 101 million people killed; in addition, an inestimable number have been injured or have suffered psychological and material harm. Yet, for the most part, perpetrators have benefited from impunity and escaped accountability.

How can contemporary ICJ address such a volume of core international crimes which have generated so much victimization and material harm? Are the post-WWII assumptions still valid? Can national justice systems assume the primary task of prosecutions? What will the mission of the ICC become, and how will it acquit itself of it? These are issues which are identified within the International Guidelines on Post-Conflict Justice prepared during this project. They are a set of comprehensive guidelines describing how governments, international institutions, and others should respond to serious violations of human rights, as well as how to promote peace and reconciliation in the aftermath of conflict. What follows in this book, which contains the proceedings of five regional conferences in Asia, Africa, the Arab World, Europe, and Central and South America, as well as a number of thematic studies dealing with post-conflict justice, should be most instructive to the ICC. These studies also assess various PCJ experiences as a means of determining the most appropriate policy responses in the context of a comprehensive strategy.

This publication includes a survey of world conflicts that occurred between 1945 and 2008, the level of victimization they produced, and the subsequent post-conflict justice (PCJ) mechanisms which were applied. It is intended to show how the International Criminal Court (ICC) needs to shape its mission and approach to address ICJ needs and expectations.

Individual Criminal Liability for the International Crime of Aggression

The Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court (ICC) provides for the inclusion of the crime of aggression within the Court's jurisdiction, but the Statute needs to be amended to include a definition of aggression and conditions for the exercise of jurisdiction. The Assembly of States Parties of the ICC will have such an opportunity to review the Rome Statute at its conference in Kampala (Uganda) in 2010. The author argues in this book that the review process provides an opportunity for the establishment of a realistic criminalisation regime for the crime of aggression. However, this criminal justice response to aggression has implications for the collective security system (embodied by the United Nations). No criminal justice response to aggression can ignore the latter aspect. The book thus provides a historical and contextual account of the development of the notion of aggression. It identifies the important debates affecting the attempts to define the crime of aggression; puts the legal debates in a normative and international political context; and examines the conditions necessary for the prosecution of the crime of aggression – both nationally and internationally. It is submitted that the almost universal non-criminalisation of aggression at national level (and the concomitant lack of prosecutions) must be understood in the light of multiple constitutional, doctrinal and political reasons. These aspects are analysed with reference to national case studies.

Law of the Sea Interest Group: International Law of the High Seas Fisheries in a Time of Change

Jefferson
8:30 am - 10:30 am

This panel of experts will assess the status of the Fish Stocks Agreement (FSA) and high seas fisheries management and conservation efforts eight years after the entry into force of the FSA. Topics to be considered include the role and success of regional fisheries management organizations and the ongoing battle against illegal, unreported and unregulated fishing.

Moderator: Bernard H. Oxman, University of Miami, School of Law
Panelists: David A. Balton, U.S. Department of State • David Freestone, George Washington University Law School • Eva Vázquez, Faculty of Law and Economics University of Cordoba

New Thinking on Social and Economic Rights: Honoring Virginia Leary

Co-sponsored by the International Refugee Law and Women in International Law Interest Groups

Salon II

This roundtable is convened in honor of Professor Virginia Leary (1926-2009), a groundbreaking international legal scholar and human rights advocate. Session participants will discuss cutting-edge approaches to the promotion and implementation of social and economic human rights, including non-discrimination and equality rights, workers' rights, and rights to housing, food, health, and education.

Moderator: Barbara Stark, Hofstra University School of Law
Panelists: Philip Alston, New York University School of Law • Andrew Clapham, Graduate Institute of International Studies Institute • Gay McDougall, Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights • Mona Rishmawi, Office of the UN High Commissioner for Human Rights • Alicia Ely Yamin, Harvard Law School

Risk, Science and Law in the WTO (CLE Pending: CA, FL, IL, PA, NY, TX, VA)

Co-sponsored by the International Economic Law Interest Group

Salon III A

This panel examines the role of the WTO in mediating the irreconcilable tension between science and policy choices surrounding risk management. A series of trans-Atlantic trade disputes manifest the critical interpretive divergence between differing perceptions of risk management in the context of new technologies, new diseases and new visions of social health and welfare. Beginning with the question of whether the WTO should adjudicate this kind of question, the panel will consider what might be a desirable role of the WTO tribunal here: a judge, mediator or facilitator. The panel is intended to provide a critical yet constructive discourse on this relatively new phenomenon.

Moderator: John Jackson, Georgetown University
Panelists: Sungjoon Cho, Chicago-Kent College of Law • Tracey Epps, New Zealand Ministry of Foreign Affairs & Trade • Gregory Shaffer, University of Minnesota Law School • Annecoos Wiersema, Moritz College of Law, Ohio State University

Empirical Approaches to International Law

Co-sponsored by the International Economic Law and International Legal Theory Interest Groups

Salon III B
9:00 am - 10:30 am

Within recent years there has been an explosion of empirical work within international legal scholarship. This research utilizes qualitative and quantitative methodologies from disciplines such as political science, economics, sociology, and anthropology. This roundtable will assess this scholarship, its contribution to international legal thinking, and its potential future directions.

Moderator: Tonya Putnam, Columbia Law School
Panelists: Elizabeth Andersen, American Society of International Law • Elena Baylis, University of Pittsburgh School of Law • Susan Franck, Washington and Lee University • Tom Ginsburg, University of Chicago Law School • Janet Levit, University of Tulsa, College of Law

Getting to Closure: Winding Up the International and Hybrid Criminal Tribunals

Co-sponsored by the International Criminal Law Interest Group

Plaza I

The Special Court for Sierra Leone and the International Criminal Tribunals for the Former Yugoslavia and Rwanda are slated to close over the next few years. A roundtable of experts will explore key legal and policy issues surrounding the closures of these three tribunals and of others in the future.

Moderator: Valerie Oosterveld, University of Western Ontario Faculty of Law
Panelists: Kelly Askin, Open Society Justice Initiative • Anne Joyce, U.S. Department of State • Huw Llewellyn, United Nations Office of Legal Affairs

New Voices I (CLE Pending: CA, FL, IL, PA, NY, TX, VA)

Plaza II

ASIL continues its tradition of featuring the scholarship of students and new professionals (academic or non-academic) who have been working in the field of international law for seven years or less. Chosen through a highly competitive selection process, the new voices in this session are emblematic of the promise of a new generation of scholars.

Moderator: Edith Brown Weiss, Georgetown University Law Center
Panelists: Harlan Grant Cohen, University of Georgia School of Law, "From International Law to International Conflicts of Law: The Fragmentation of Legitimacy" • Marie Enright, University College Cork, Faculty of Law, "Too Fertile Forces and Inhospitable Terrain" • Alexandra Harrington, McGill University, Faculty of Law, "Citizens of the World" • Amos Israel-Vleeschheuer, Tel Aviv University, Faculty of Law, "Engaging Religious Laws, Players, and Communities"

Dispute Resolution Interest Group Meeting

Lincoln
9:00 am - 10:00 am

Teaching International Law Interest Group: The Challenges and Rewards of Teaching International Students

Roosevelt

9:00 am - 10:30 am

Discussion will highlight opportunities to teach international students in the U.S. and abroad and the contrasting rhetorical and ethical preferences among legal cultures, emphasizing how those contrasts play out in the law classroom and the law office. Special curricular issues arising when we teach international students will also be examined.

Moderator: Thomas M. McDonnell, Pace University School of Law

Panelists: Jill Ramsfield, William S. Richardson School of Law, University of Hawaii - Manoa • Diane Edelman, Villanova University

International Human Rights Law, Foreign Sovereign Immunity, and National Courts (CLE Pending: CA, FL, IL, PA, NY, TX, VA)

Sponsored by Women in International Law Interest Group

Salon I

This panel will consider the relationship between international human rights law and sovereign immunity in the context of proceedings brought in national courts. This relationship is implicated in both the Samantar v. Yousuf case pending before the U.S. Supreme Court, which concerns a suit for damages brought in a U.S. court against a Somali official under the Alien Tort Statute, and the Germany v. Italy case pending before the International Court of Justice, which concerns World War II-era reparation proceedings brought against Germany in Italian courts.

Moderator: Curtis Bradley, Duke University School of Law

Panelists: Rosanne van Alebeek, University of Amsterdam, Center for International Law • Sarah Cleveland, U.S. Department of State • Samuel Estreicher, New York University • Michael Edney, Gibson Dunn LLP

The Goldstone Report and the Modern Law of War

Salon I

10:45 am – 12:00 pm

The Report of the United Nations Fact Finding Mission on the Gaza Conflict (the Goldstone Report) has given rise to sharp disagreements about the operation of international humanitarian law in modern asymmetric warfare. Two legal experts will offer divergent opinions and exchange views on legal aspects of Israel's 2009 military intervention into the Gaza Strip.

Moderator: Lucy E. Reed, Freshfields Bruckhaus Deringer LLP

Discussants: Abraham Bell, University of San Diego, School of Law • Omar Dajani, Pacific McGeorge School of Law

Teaching International Law: Lessons from Clinical Education

Lincoln

10:45 am - 12:15 pm

Change is nowhere more apparent, and more resistant, than global trends in legal education. The Carnegie Foundation and Best Practices reports in the U.S., and the Bologna process in Europe, both attempt to balance the theory-practice dichotomy in law school pedagogy. This is apparent in the global explosion of clinical legal education, broadly, and international human rights as clinical subject-matter, specifically. This panel will explore those developments.

Moderator: Richard Wilson, American University Washington College of Law

Panelists: Bernard Duhaime, University of Quebec-Human Rights Clinic • Lusine Hovhannisian, Public Interest Law Initiative • Deena Hurwitz, University of Virginia School of Law • Hector Olasolo, Utrecht International Law Clinic

A Comparative Look at Extraterritoriality: Bagram and Beyond

Salon II

10:45 am - 12:15 pm

Boumediene v. Bush marked a watershed in U.S. jurisprudence on the extraterritorial reach of constitutional rights. In the United States and elsewhere, courts are being asked to determine when domestic and regional rights regimes constrain government action abroad. This roundtable will discuss competing approaches to extraterritorial rights in light of current and pending cases.

Moderator: Chimène Keitner, University of California-Hastings

Panelists: Douglas Letter, U.S. Department of Justice • Sabine Nölke, Canadian Department of Foreign Affairs • Kal Raustiala, University of California-Los Angeles • Ralph Wilde, University College London

Haiti: International Law and Disaster

Salon III B

10:45 am – 12:00 pm

The devastating earthquake in Haiti, already one of the poorest countries in the world, has triggered a massive humanitarian crisis. This roundtable will discuss the international and transnational legal implications of this crisis, with a particular emphasis on legal frameworks for disaster preparedness; movement of people, especially children slated for adoption or in need of medical assistance; and international trade.

Moderator: Hope Lewis, Northeastern University School of Law

Panelists: Muzaffar Chisti, MPI Office at New York University School of Law • Janet Lord, BlueLaw International LLP, Harvard Law School Project on Disability • Claire Nelson, Institute of Caribbean Studies • Jonathan Todres, Georgia State University College of Law

Hot Topics in GATS and Human Rights

Co-sponsored by the International Economic Law Interest Group

Salon III A

10:45 am - 12:15 pm

This panel will explore the intersection of the General Agreement on Trade in Services, (GATS), on the one hand, and norms of international human rights law, on the other. The panel will present a variety of perspectives and discuss examples in areas such as health, water and ezices and how GATS commitments affect access and affordability of these services for diverse populations including women and children.

Moderator: James Thuo Gathii, Albany Law School

Panelists: Obijifor Aginam, United Nations University • Jane Kelsey, University of Auckland Marion Panizzon, World Trade Institute • Michael Santoro, Rutgers Business School

Rights of Indigenous Peoples Interest Group Meeting: International Economic Law and Indigenous Peoples: A New Direction in Human Rights Advocacy?

Jefferson

This panel will focus on the engagement of international economic law, including trade and cross-border tax, to advocate for indigenous peoples' rights to their traditional lands and resources. Participants will discuss indigenous peoples' participation in NAFTA and WTO proceedings. Participants will also address recent developments, including the settlement of Glamis Gold v. U.S.

Moderator: Lillian Aponte Miranda, Florida International University College of Law

Panelists: Todd Weiler, Investment Treaty Arbitration Specialist Counsel • James Hopkins, Indigenous Peoples' Law and Policy Program, University of Arizona, Rogers College of Law • Leonardo Crippa, Indian Law Resource Center

Providing Global Public Goods Under International Law

Roosevelt

10:45 am - 12:15 pm

Public goods tend to be undervalued and overused. This moderated roundtable will discuss legal challenges to protecting and promoting global public goods on the domestic, regional and global scale. The panel will pay particular attention to the roles that law plays or might play in creating, maintaining, and distributing public goods in a world where externalities increasingly spill over national borders and global capacities are being exhausted.

Moderator: Rebecca Bratspies, City University of New York, School of Law

Panelists: Anna van Aaken, University of St. Gallen, Max Planck Institute • Victoria Henson-Apollonio, Consultative Group on International Agricultural Research • Inge Kaul, United Nations Development Programme • Sabrina Safrin, Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey

Women in International Law Interest Group Luncheon: "Where I Sit and Where I Stand"

Plaza Ballroom

12:30 pm - 2:30 pm

Moderator: Marcia Wiss, Hogan & Hartson LLP

Honoree/Speaker: Professor Dinah Shelton, George Washington University Law School

Afghanistan, Pakistan and the Modern Challenges to Use of Force Law

Co-sponsored by the International Refugee Law Interest Group

Salon III A

1:00 pm - 2:30 pm

This panel will explore the deep and persistent challenges facing NATO and American forces operating in Afghanistan and Pakistan, generating insights into the capacity of international humanitarian law to limit suffering in counterinsurgency warfare and the extent to which forces are, in fact, meeting their obligations under the law.

Moderator: Mary Ellen O'Connell, University of Notre Dame Law School

Panelists: Paul Pillar, Center for Peace and Security Studies, Georgetown University • Hina Shamsi, New York University School of Law • Ganesh Sitaraman, Harvard Law School • John Radsam, William Mitchell College of Law

International Organizations Interest Group: Cuba: Its Re-entry into the Inter-American System

Salon III B

1:00 pm - 2:30 pm

Panelists will discuss the legal and political implications of Cuba's reinsertion in the inter-American system, including Cuba's ongoing relations with Western hemisphere countries and with international organizations; last year's OAS General Assembly Resolution whereby the 1962 OAS Ministers of Foreign Affairs' Resolution ceased to have effect; and other recent developments.

Moderator: Lorena Perez, Organization of American States

Panelists: William Berenson, Organization of American States, Department of Legal Services • Daniel Erikson, Inter-American Dialogue • Sarah Stevens, Center for Democracy in the Americas • Tom Farer, Korbel School of International Studies, University of Denver

UN 21 Interest Group: Post Conflict Natural Resources Management and Development: Lessons Learned and Future Directions for International Law and Practice

Co-sponsored by the Africa, International Environmental Law, and the Teaching International Law Interest Groups

Jefferson

1:00 pm - 2:30 pm

Natural resources frequently play a significant role in post-conflict peacebuilding, a budding international law field. This session will assess experiences in post-conflict natural resource management and peacebuilding and suggest ways that international administrative / organizational law, international humanitarian law and international environmental law should be strengthened to improve post-conflict peacebuilding.

Moderator: Itzhak Kornfeld, Faculty of Law, The Hebrew University of Jerusalem

Panelists: Jessica J. Troell, Environmental Law Institute • Carl Bruch, Environmental Law Institute • Mohamed Yaya, United Nations Development Program • Cymie Payne, University of California Berkeley School of Law

Evolving Intersections Between Treaty Law and Domestic Law (CLE Pending: CA, FL, IL, PA, NY, TX, VA)

Roosevelt

1:00 pm - 2:30 pm

This panel will explore evolving trends at the intersection of international treaty law and domestic law. Panelists will discuss the extent to which treaties increasingly address issues affecting the internal laws and procedures of States Parties, and the domestic enforceability of such treaties.

Moderator: Avril Haines, U.S. Department of State

Panelists: Johanna Bond, Washington and Lee School of Law • Andrew Keller, U.S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee • Stephen Rickard, Open Society Policy Center • Mallory Stewart, U.S. Department of State

Law in the Pacific Rim Region Interest Group: Asian Economic Integration - Reflecting or Reshaping Legal and Economic Realities?

Lincoln

1:00 pm - 2:30 pm

The march to sign regional trade agreements in Asia proceeds unabated. How are these agreements affecting legal and economic relationships in Asia? Do they merely reflect economic realities on the ground or do they create new realities in trade, investment, intellectual property and other cross-border issues? The Interest Group will examine these questions with respect to several existing and proposed agreements.

Moderator: Elizabeth Chien-Hale, Apple Inc.

Panelists: Karl Ehlers, U.S. Trade Representative's Office • Sek Wannamethee, Royal Thai Embassy

New Series: Nijhoff International Trade Law Series

General Editor: Maiz Anisman, Professor, University of Oslo

bit.ly/1n1st

ISBN 977-9302

The Nijhoff International Trade Law Series is a forum for important and original research. It covers international trade law in its widest sense, including International Economic Law and International Financial Law. The series crosses the boundaries that divide the law. The series includes studies of trade law subjects that would fall within the disciplines and sub-disciplines of public and private international and comparative law. National implementation and other aspects of the interaction between national and international law is a growing field of scholarship, and national constitutional arrangements relating to 'foreign affairs', and to the implementation of international norms, are a focus of attention. The relationship between different treaty regimes and the emergence of international rule of law concepts are also subjected to more rigorous analysis. Comparative law is increasingly used as a tool in the making of law at national, regional and international levels. Different international and national systems interact in ever more complicated ways. Private international law is often affected by international conventions, and the issues faced by classical conflict rules are dealt with by substantive harmonization of law. International arbitrations involve public and private international law, and investment protection and human rights and democratic standards.

Immigration and Asylum Law and Policy in Europe

bit.ly/1n1st

ISSN 1568-0749

The series is a venue for books on European immigration and asylum law and policies where academics, policy makers, law practitioners and others look to find detailed analysis of this dynamic field. Works in the series will start from a European perspective. The increased co-operation within the European Union and the Council of Europe on matters related to immigration and asylum requires the publication of theoretical and empirical research. The series will contribute to well-informed policy debates by analysing and interpreting the evolving European legislation and its effects on national law and policies. The series brings together the various stakeholders in these policy debates: the legal profession, researchers, employers, trade unions, human rights and other civil society organisations.

Domestic Violence and International Law

Barbara Meyersfeld

Foreword by Harold Koh, The Legal Adviser, United States Department of State (2009-)

'...an original, provocative, and much needed legal framework for the coherent development of a norm against domestic violence in international human rights law... [This book] breaks new ground and will surely provide a valuable resource for lawyers, judges and policymakers for many years to come.'

This book provides a comprehensive legal analysis for why a state should be accountable in international law for allowing women to suffer extreme forms of domestic violence and how this can help individual victims.

Barbara Meyersfeld is an international human rights lawyer, specializing in violence against women, and is currently working as a parliamentary legal adviser in the House of Lords.

International Law and Dispute Settlement

New Problems and Techniques

Edited by Dominique French, Matthew Sand and Nigel D White

International dispute settlement plays a fundamental role in maintaining the fabric of the international legal order, reflecting the desire of States, and increasingly non-State actors, to resolve their differences through international dispute procedures and other legal mechanisms. This edited collection focuses upon the growth and complexity of such legal methods, which includes judicial settlement (courts and tribunals), arbitration and other legal (or what might be termed 'extra-legal') means (international organizations, committees, inspection panels, and ombudsmen).

Dominique French is Professor of International Law at the University of Sheffield. Matthew Sand is Lecturer in Law at the Durham Law School. Nigel D White is Professor of Public International Law at the University of Nottingham.

Reappraising the Resort to Force

International Law, Jus ad Bellum and the War on Terror

Lindsay Meir

A number of commentators assert that the military response to the terrorist atrocities of 11 September 2001 has significantly impacted upon the international law regulating resort to armed force by states (jus ad bellum), increasing the constraints on self-defence. This book seeks to place the 'war on terror' within the context of international law, assessing how, or whether, it can be accommodated within the existing legal framework limiting the use of force.

Lindsay Meir is Professor of International Law at Hull University.

Ordering Pluralism

A Conceptual Framework for Understanding the Transnational Legal World

Mirville Delmas-Marty

Foreword by Stephen Breyer, Washington, DC

'The book is timely and relevant to the practical concerns of those who work with, and within, the legal system. We must thank Professor Delmas-Marty for her fine work.'

Mirville Delmas-Marty's 'journey through the legal landscape' of the early years of the 21st century shows it to be dominated by imperfections, uncertainty and instability. How, she asks, can we move beyond the relative and the universal to build order without imposing it, to accept pluralism without giving up on a common law? Neither utopian fiction nor illusory utopianism, Ordering Pluralism offers answers both in epistemological revolution and in fact, it seeks creating a common legal sea by progressive adjustments that preserve diversity.

Mirville Delmas-Marty holds the chair in Comparative Legal Studies and Internationalization of Law at the Collège de France.

An Introduction to the Law of the United Nations

Robert Kolb

This work succinctly fills a gap in the existing legal literature by presenting a compact, concise but nevertheless panoramic view of the law of the United Nations. In spite of its importance, this pre-eminent world political organisation is poorly understood by the general public, and the extent and variety of its activities is not widely appreciated. Assessments of the organisation and judgments about its achievements are consequently frequently distorted. This work is aimed especially at amending these deficiencies in public and legal understanding, but also at presenting the organisation as a coherent system of values and integrated action.

Robert Kolb is Professor of Public International Law at the University of Geneva.

The Iran Nuclear Issue

Yael Ronen

Controversy over the Iranian nuclear policy has been mounting in both legal and political circles since the early 2000s. This volume documents the Iranian nuclear issue, tracing the evolution of international interest and concern with Iran's nuclear policy since the 1970s, when Iran began concert efforts to acquire nuclear capabilities.

Emphasis is now chiefly placed on events since 2003-2005, when it was established that Iran had concealed certain aspects of its nuclear activities from the IAEA.

Yael Ronen is Lecturer in the Faculty of Law at Bar Ilan University, Ramat Gan.

American Journal of International Law

The distinguished American Journal of International Law has been published quarterly since 1907. It features articles, editorials, notes, and comments by prominent scholars on developments in international law and international relations, as well as summaries and analyses of decisions by national and international courts. The Journal is indispensable for all professionals working in international law, economics, trade and foreign affairs.

Careers in International Law

This Guide is a valuable resource for any student or new professional considering a career in international law, providing advice concerning internships and career paths in public and private international law fields, such as human rights, international trade, the environment, finance and banking, telecommunications, international development, and dispute resolution. The Guide also contains essays, in which seasoned practitioners and academics active in areas ranging from public international law to human rights law share their experiences and offer advice.

International Legal Materials

Published bimonthly since 1962, International Legal Materials provides the basic, primary documents of research and analysis. Materials are selected for their usefulness to scholars, practitioners and business and government officials, both in the United States and abroad. Each issue contains the full text of important treaties and agreements, judicial and arbitral decisions, national legislation, international organizations resolutions, and other documents.

Proceedings of the American Society of International Law

The ASIL Proceedings form a record of the Society's Annual Meetings, the first one being held in 1907. At these events international scholars, practitioners, and experts gather to discuss and present research papers on the latest developments in such areas as trade and investment, the environment and human rights, and in such regions as the Middle East, Latin America and Europe. Also included are speeches given by U.S. government and international officials, who often use the occasion to make major policy statements.
